time it would be unwise to take it for granted | will follow the wise example of their brethren at that the popular vote will be favorable, and the Cape give the matter no further attention. Our Brooklyn contemporaties, "The Eagle" and The Standard Union," both of which support the amendment, though the former has heretofore been and the latter still is opposed to municipal construction and ownership of underound roads in the Boroughs of Manhattan and The Bronx, dwell on the chance of its defeat in articles referring to the Confroller's recent statement. Both consider it probable that country voters will generally oppose the amendment, and thus accomplish its defeat, unless there is a large vote for its adoption at this end of the State, and "The Standard Union" also suggests the possibility that Tammany, in its resentment on account of Ramapo, will effeetively apply the familiar knife in secret.
